Vigilantes 'will switch town street lights back on' claim

A GROUP of vigilante electricians is preparing to take to Northampton's streets to switch back on street lights turned off by the county council.

Over the past few months, Northamptonshire County Council has switched off half the county's 66,000 street lights as part of a scheme to save £2 million.

But in response, an unknown group of activists in Northampton have now trained as electricians and are planning to take to the streets to switch the lamps back on.

Despite being condemned by the council, the group has been backed by Councillor Tony Clarke (Ind. Castle).

While the politician has not revealed who members of the group are, he said that as long as they were properly trained and could do the job safely, they had his support.

He said: "These people have been very clear in their intentions and that they're qualified to switch the lights back on.

"I think their plans are borne out of frustration and we should just thank our lucky stars it's being done by trained individuals.

"Nobody wants untrained members of the public messing about with the lights, but if it's done properly, they have my blessing."

The group is not yet believed to have tampered with any of the county's lights, but it is thought they plan to start work in Northampton soon.

Council officials who have been made aware of the vigilante plans warned tampering with the lights could be dangerous.

A spokesman for the authority said: "It's extremely disappointing that people are considering taking this action. Not only is tampering with street lights without proper knowledge and training dangerous, it will mean a further cost to taxpayers to correct the changes.

"The switch-off programme was carefully developed in conjunction with the police and a great deal of consideration was given to ensure the right lights were switched off. We've also set-up a process for anyone who wants to raise an issue regarding switched off street lights and we ask people to follow this."

New crime unit formed by police

ONE of the biggest crime fighting agencies in the country was launched this week to find murderers and track drug gangs across the East Midlands.

The combined major crime unit and serious and organised crime team marks the latest collaboration between police forces in Northamptonshire, Derbyshire, Leicestershire, Lincolnshire and Nottinghamshire.

The new unit, the biggest of its kind in the country, is set to save around £26 million for the cash-strapped forces over the next four years.

Schools given council support

PLANS to double the size of a Northampton primary school have been backed by members of Northamptonshire County Council's cabinet, despite opposition from people who live close to the school.

The scheme, which would see Kingsthorpe Village Primary School double in size to take 420 pupils, was backed by the council's cabinet yesterday. The council also backed similar plans to expand Abbey Primary School, Briar Hill Primary, Kings Heath Primary, Kingsley Primary, Standens Barn Primary, Sunnyside Primary and Weston Favell Primary.

Chief Constable Adrian Lee and Professor Nick Petford (centre) with Tom Afford, Rosie Campbell, Shannon Mulcahy and Victoria Lindsay

Police chief wants more recruits

NORTHAMPTONSHIRE'S most senior police officer said he was hoping to start recruiting new officers sooner than planned after addressing a policing conference at The University of Northampton.

At the two-day conference, Chief Constable Adrian Lee said the current freeze on recruitment at Wootton Hall was not healthy for the force. He said he was keen to lift the staff freeze as soon as possible, as long as the financial restrictions placed on the force allowed police bosses to do so.

Mr Lee said: "We are not recruiting currently but that is not a good plan. If we can improve the financial situation then I would want to start recruiting earlier than we are planning to do at the minute."

The university, which runs a pioneering foundation degree in policing, is hosting the conference, called 'Police Learning: Professionalisation and Partnerships'. It is the second time the national annual conference has been held and the first time it has been held in Northamptonshire.

Mr Lee said the future of the partnership between the Northamptonshire Police and the university was crucial to the training of new police officers. A recent government report recommended officers should in future pass a university foundation degree in policing before being employed by police.

The University of Northampton is one of the few places in the country to run the pioneering course.

Vice Chancellor Professor Nick Petford said: "We are proud of it because it is a novel course, it is a ground-breaking course and we are proud of it because the success rate is very high."

Night run debut to promote culture

A NIGHT run will take place in Northampton for the first time next month.

As part of the Igniting Ambition Festival, a 3km run is due to be held on the night of Saturday, October 29, around the town centre which will include all of Northampton's key cultural landmarks.

The proposed route will feature a mix of digital lighting installations, live music and performances, a giant LED screen, exhibitions and Market Square illuminations. Northamptonshire County and Northampton Borough Councillor David Mackintosh (Con, Rectory Farm) said: "Northampton has a fantastic heritage reflecting the town's historical past, including the Market Square, The Guildhall, All Saints Church and Sessions House. Night Run Northampton therefore provides the opportunity for us to show off and celebrate this great town's heritage and cultural assets to residents and visitors alike in advance of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games."

Two men attacked

The two men were walking along College Street when they were approached by a group of four or five men, one of whom asked for some pizza. When one of the victims declined, he was assaulted and left unconscious. The other victim also assaulted and knocked unconscious. The attack happened on August 29.

The regional victory means the team will once again represent the Midlands at the Team15 Champions Cup.

Academy signs new £1.5m deal for Wi-Fi links

A NEW campus-wide Wi-Fi network will be available at Malcolm Arnold Academy in Northampton as a result of a new £1.5 million contract signed with a technology services company.

The school, in Trinity Avenue, sponsored by the David Ross Education Trust, has purchased an Information and Communications Technology (ICT) service from Northgate Managed Services.

Teachers and students will benefit from being able to access the academy's educational resources from any device connected to the internet, such as laptop computers and interactive whiteboards.

The re-developed school atrium is expected to be a place where small groups of students can collaborate on the Wi-Fi network. Principal Philip Cantwell said: "It was important for us as an academy to have a robust IT solution that would integrate seamlessly with the existing school environment.

"Not only did we want a solution that was technically viable, we wanted one that was highly effective in the classroom as a teaching and learning tool.

"We realise the potential of how the effective use of ICT can engage and stimulate students and improve and enhance their learning. It was important for us to unlock that potential."

Teachers and non-teaching staff are currently being trained to use the new equipment.

Chris Wiseman, sales director for Northgate Managed Services, said: "We are delighted to be working with the David Ross Education Trust and Malcolm Arnold Academy. We have focused on designing a solution and change programme that meets the challenges of the school."

Northgate supplies ICT services to more than 1,250 schools and academies across the UK.

Cobblers stars take to the track for a team-building exercise at Northampton Indoor Karting Centre in Harvey Reeves Road

Cobblers put driving skills to the test

COBBLERS stars may have struggled to put their foot on the accelerator on the pitch so far this season, but the squad showed no such signs off it during a team go-karting day.

The footballers took to the track at the Northampton Indoor Karting centre, in Harvey Reeves Road, yesterday, as part of a team bonding afternoon of racing.

And despite some dubious overtaking and the odd disqualification for dangerous driving, the players said the event would help build team morale.

Midfielder Paul Turnbull said he hoped the team bonding session would help the Cobblers towards a confidence building win at home to Torquay United on Saturday.

He said: "I think it is a good thing for the lads to get to know each other better. A lot of us are new faces in the squad and hopefully we will take that in to Saturday and get a win."

Asked how seriously the squad was taking the go-karting, he added: "I know some of the lads have got some money on who is going to win."

Cobblers spokesman Gareth Willsher said the go-karting had been planned following a request from the players themselves.

He said: "It is to give the lads some time to get away from the training ground."

"It is to give them a fun activity, to give them a laugh and give them a chance to spend some time in a different environment," Mr Willsher added.

"A few of the lads put the idea forward and we organised it and we would obviously like to thank Northampton Indoor Karting for helping us out."

Staff give support to the Run '11 event

STAFF from a charity resource centre in Northampton are preparing to take part in the third annual Run event in the town.

Run '11 starts from Sixfields Stadium on Sunday, October 2, and this year more than 2,500 runners are expected to turn out for the 5km or 10km event.

These include 12 members of staff from The Stroke Association's resource centre in Brackmills.

Team member Helen Chapman, exhibitions and conferences co-ordinator, said: "A group of us in the office wanted to do something to keep fit and, seeing as The Run is a local event, and The Stroke Association is one of its charity partners, it seemed a perfect opportunity."

Chris Holmes, event spokesman and director of Northamptonshire Sport, said: "It is great to have such support from our partner charities and this year we are proud to be working with The Stroke Association for the first time."

"Their team have really got behind the event."

Appeal over sex attack

OFFICERS are appealing for witnesses following a sexual assault in Northampton last Monday. The attack happened at around 8.45am on the footbridge across the lake, behind Northampton Academy, on Billing Brook Road. A 20-year-old woman was approached by a man who touched her inappropriately before indecently exposing himself. He was an Asian man, aged 30 to 35, clean shaven and of average build. He had distinctive collar-length wavy black hair and was wearing a beige jacket with dark blue jeans.

Pervert seen in the woods

A PERVERT was seen performing an 'indecent act' on himself several times in woodland in Northampton over recent weeks, police revealed. The man was spotted earlier this month in the woods between Heather Lane and Billing Brook Road. He was described as a white man, aged 35-40, of stocky build and pale complexion, with a round face and very closely shaved hair. He was seen wearing a dark fleece zipped up at the front.

Academy approvals

Data released yesterday by the Government showed Moulton School and Science College, as well as Kingsley School and Maplefields School, both in Kettering, have made successful applications to become academies.

Barclaycard staff receiving "Jenson Batton" for their charity cycle/run John O'Groats to Lands End Challenge

Credit card firm go on huge trek

MORE than 200 members of staff from Northampton-based Barclaycard are taking part in a charity challenge that will see them walk, run, cycle, pogo-stick and space-hop more than 1,000 miles.

The group, from the firm's Global Payments Acceptance team, are attempting to travel from John O'Groats to Lands End to raise £100,000 for ABF The Soldiers' Charity, which supports serving and former soldiers and their families.

The first team of cyclists set off from John O'Groats on August 16 and, since then, members of staff have been visiting customers, suppliers, colleagues and famous landmarks along the way.

The team which is covering the leg between Birmingham and London, visited Barclaycard House in Brackmills yesterday for a day of fund-raising and physical activities, including challenging their executive committee to race 18 miles around the town's Norbital cycling route.

University in line for awards

THE University of Northampton is in the running for two Times Higher Education Awards.

It was announced yesterday the university had been shortlisted in the categories of Entrepreneurial University of the Year and Most Improved Student Experience.

Vice chancellor Professor Nick Petford said: "These are two categories that we are proud to have been nominated for, especially as Most Improved Student Experience has been voted for by our students. We are working hard to improve our student experience through investment in our estate and teaching and learning facilities.

"Our nomination for entrepreneurship reflects our work with local business, but in particular our social enterprise agenda," he added.

From this year, all students at the university can work in a social enterprise as part of their degree course.

Prof Petford said: "This could be in one that we already have set up, one that we support them set up or one already operating in the local community.

"By 2015, we want to be the top university in the UK for social enterprise and we're already on our way there with the recent 'Outstanding HEI Supporting Social Entrepreneurship' award from UnLtd/HEFCE."

The winners will be announced at an awards ceremony at The Grosvenor House Hotel, in London, on Thursday, November 24.

Who stole the scarecrows?

THE successful Harpole Scarecrow Festival was marred when two exhibits were stolen.

More than £10,000 is expected to have been raised from this year's event, which was attended by thousands of people and featured more than 200 scarecrows in the streets and gardens of the village.

But a couple of village residents were disappointed when their exhibits were taken.

A 'farmer scarecrow' belonging to 77-year-old Richard Starmer, was stolen on Saturday night.

Mr Starmer, who propped the scarecrow up against his tractor and was taking donations for the Warwickshire & Northamptonshire Air Ambulance, said the theft was "pathetic".

He said: "The thing is it's not really worth anything and it's so pathetic that somebody has taken it.

"I used it to collect money for the air ambulance so that person has robbed money from the air ambulance."

Festival chairman David Walker-Collins said a Winston Churchill puppet was also stolen on Saturday night and he appealed for the thieves to return the items to their owners.

He said: "I think it was high jinks rather than anything else, as we know the puppet was stolen after the local pubs shut.

"But we would like it to be returned as the owner is 92-years-old and in ill health and the puppet has large sentimental value to him.

"I also fail to see why anyone would want to steal Mr Starmer's scarecrow."

This year's festival featured a wide range of different scarecrow characters, including Del Boy and Rodney, Batman, Harry Potter and Prince William and Kate Middleton.

Police are investigating.

Teenager sees off competition

A TEENAGER beat off stiff competition to secure first place in a national canoeing final.

Northampton Sea Cadet Patrick Green, aged 15, from Kingsthorpe, took home the gold medal from the National Boatwork Finals, held at the Excel Centre in London recently.

The unit's rowing crew and sail boat handling crew also returned with medals, both securing third place for their efforts.

The cadets had already sailed through the county and regional heats to represent the East Midlands in the final.

Chris Read, commanding officer of the unit, said: "This competition really sees the best of the best taking part, so it is fantastic that our cadets did so well."

College opens up centre

MOULTON College students will try their hand at gamekeeping, countryside management and fishery studies at a new £700,000 centre.

The Wilson Countryside Management Centre officially opened at the college in West Street, Moulton, yesterday.

The new centre, which houses three specialist workshop centres for the new subjects, was funded by the Wilson Foundation charity, the Higher Education Funding Council for England and the Skills Funding Agency.

Principal at the college, Stephen Davies, said: "The subjects will enable our students to gain important skills that will be required when they move into employment or go on to a further education course."

He added: "As a college we are very progressive and look at improving our resources to ensure they are state of the art and keep up with the industry. The centre here needed some work to bring it up to standard."

Work began on the centre at Easter and it will be used by students from September 19, at the start of the new college term.

Nick Wilson, of The Wilson Foundation, opened the new building at yesterday's launch event, with his mother, Judy Wilson.

The family-run charity, which supports underprivileged children in Northamptonshire, received funds left by Nick Wilson's father, Lynn Wilson, who died in 2008.

Mr Wilson said: "We are now able to fund capital projects like this one. We were so impressed by what was going on here and we wanted to help."

Groups get help from tax money

A POT of £70,000 has been set aside from increases in second home council tax to help community projects.

Daventry District Council has received the money after the council tax discount on second homes was reduced from 50 per cent to 10 per cent across the area.

An agreement between the district and Northamptonshire County Council has resulted in a pot of £70,000 being available to support local community projects and initiatives in the district.

Schemes receiving money include the Daventry Music Service which will receive £15,000 and Daventry Job Club which will receive funding to help extend it to rural parts of the district.

Ex-plumber publishes new book

A FORMER plumber from Southfields has published a book of short stories on a variety of subjects.Richard A Ridley, aged 53, released his second e-book, The Gilded Vampire and 20 other stories, around three weeks ago.The short story, The Gilded Vampire, tells the tale of a vampire who is encased in gold on The Racecourse, in Northampton.

The story tells how a lightning storm hits the case and the vampire is set free to cause havoc around the town.

Former University College of Northampton student, Mr Ridley, is currently working on a novel, also called The Gilded Vampire, and previously released his first novel, Wait Until You Die.

Mr Ridley, who achieved a BA Hons in English literature in 2005, said: "I studied English so I could write novels. I want to write about what matters to me."

"I had issues I wanted to publicise."

"Some of the stories are based

Richard Ridley, who has published his second book

around things that have happened to me and others are cultural comments."

He added: "I hope local people will support me and buy it and I would love it to go on the worldwide market."

"I have always written short stories but now I want to write more novels."

Clubs for Young People Northamptonshire volunteers pictured at their fund-raising morning of The Hope Centre at the Spencer Dallington Community Centre, Northampton

Youths raise money for town's Hope Centre

YOUNG people held a donation workshop to raise funds and gather items for homeless people at the Northampton Hope Centre.

The 15- to 17-year-olds held a drop-in session at Spencer Dallington Community Centre, in Tintern Avenue, Spencer, Northampton, at the weekend as part of a special community project.

The young people, who were taking part in a national citizenship service (NCS) scheme, as part of Northampton Voluntary Youth Action, provided cakes and tea to people, who donated 14 bags of clothes and toiletries and cash on the day.

Project leader Kerry Duffy said: "The young people felt very proud of themselves for running the workshop and were very pleased with the amount of donations they received."

The event included a raffle, face painting, crafts and cake making for children and adults.

Ms Duffy added: "This event was part of a project which has run throughout the summer and since the young people started it they have come a long way."

"They are different people today and it's really nice to see them develop in confidence."

Residents ready for new round of housing battle

CAMPAIGNERS who thought they had won their battle against a controversial housing scheme only two months ago have expressed shock at news the plans were now back on the cards.

After years of fighting plans to build more than 1,000 houses on Buckton Fields, in Brampton Lane, Whitehills, people who live close to the site thought they had won their battle when Daventry District council's planning committee blocked the scheme in July by a majority of nine to two.

But now it has been revealed that developers The Ensign Group have re-submitted their plans to build 1,050 houses on the site. The plans, along with a further scheme to build 376 houses on just one section of the land, will be discussed during a special meeting of the council's planning committee next month.

Whitehills and Spring Park Residents' Association member, Angela Bartlett, said the news would shock many residents.

She said: "The whole thing doesn't really seem to make sense."

"The planning committee made their decision in July and they expressed very strong opinions against the development. To have it refused and then for it to come back to the council seems very odd. But we'll be fighting it again."

The Conservative MP for Northampton North, Michael Ellis, also expressed concerns about the re-emergence of the plans and pledged to support residents who opposed the scheme.

He said: "It sounds to me as if the developers want a second bite of the cherry on this one."

"But there's still strong local opposition. Hundreds of people went to the last planning meeting, where it was rejected by a large majority, and I know the resistance to this project among residents is still as potent as ever."

When the plans were turned down by Daventry's councillors in July, they expressed fears about the impact the development would have on traffic and that it would "swamp" nearby villages.

But Ensign believe new planning policies, drawn up as part of the Government's National Planning Policy Framework, mean the Buckton Fields scheme should be reconsidered.

Some of the skateboarders and bikers who gathered at the Guildhall in Northampton earlier this year

Hope for skate park

SKATEBOARDERS from Northampton said they were growing increasingly confident that plans to build a new skatepark in the town would be progressed.

In July, a group of about 40 skaters gathered at the Guildhall to tell councillors the town urgently needed a dedicated skateboard park.

They lobbied the council amid fears that £250,000 which the council had previously set aside to build a park could be scrapped.

But the authority has now identified a site for the park to be built and proposals to move the project forward will be discussed by the council's cabinet next week.

The chairman of the Northampton Skatepark Action Group, Kevin Charles, said the site the council had identified, at Midsummer Meadow off Bedford Road, was ideal for a skatepark.

He said: "It's our number one choice, that's where we wanted to be."

"Once this has been confirmed by the council we can start talking to constructors and fund-raising so we can really get things moving."

It is hoped the new skatepark will be of "international significance" with facilities good enough to replace Radlands, Britain's first indoor skatepark which operated in Kingsthorpe until 2004. Mr Charles said: "Originally, we talked about opening it in Easter next year."

"I don't think that will happen now, but I'd like to see it done by the end of the summer in 2012. I think that's a realistic timetable."

The council's cabinet is expected to approve proposals to site the skatepark at Midsummer Meadow during a meeting at the Guildhall this month.

Parish council clerk steps down

THE clerk of Flore Parish Council has retired after 18 years in the role.

Angela Weller (pictured) stood down from the position at the end of last month.

She said she had retired for personal reasons and has paid tribute to her former colleagues.

Mrs Weller said: "I shall miss all of my colleagues, it has been great to work with them."

"I look forward to keeping in touch with them and see how they get on in the future."

Some of the Duke of Edinburgh Award winners received certificates this week

Young achievers celebrate awards

ONE hundred young achievers from across Northamptonshire received their Duke of Edinburgh's Awards (DofE) at Grendon Hall.

All DofE award holders have completed a number of different sections in their spare time, including voluntary work, plus a physical and a skill activity, all lasting from three to 18 months.

Activities included fund-raising, helping uniformed organisations, dance, martial arts, drama, music, cookery and learning to drive.

Many of the youngsters also embarked on exotic expeditions to places including Kenya, Ecuador and Morocco to qualify for their Gold award. They received their certificates in front of proud parents and other family on Wednesday evening.

Ann Powell, Northamptonshire's Duke of Edinburgh development worker, said: "Every award is unique to that person as they each choose a different way to achieve it, including different expeditions. These are extremely fortunate young people who have met every challenge offered to them."

Household jobless totals revealed

NOBODY has a job in more than one in 10 households in Northamptonshire, latest employment figures showed.

The Office of National Statistics yesterday released the figures for the whole of 2010, which showed 33,000 county homes were completely jobless.

It is the equivalent of 14 per cent of homes relying on job seeker's allowance, although the figure was slightly less than the national average of 18 per cent.

However, in more positive news for the county, 140,000 Northamptonshire households had every eligible person in employment, just over 60 per cent of homes.

One in four homes had at least one person on job seeker's allowance, which accounted for 60,000 homes.

Paul Griffiths, chief executive of Northamptonshire Chamber of Commerce said the more positive figures showed the county economy was holding up relatively well, which was a good foundation for future business.

He said: "It's great to see that, as a county, we are above the national average at 60 per cent for the amount of households in which all the residents are in work."

"This is sure to increase even further with the planned Enterprise Zone coming to Northampton and creating thousands more jobs by 2015."

"I am regularly hearing of plans, funding and initiatives under way in the county to accelerate job creation, and I firmly believe that things are really looking up for our local economy."

Photographer Natalie Christie is displaying her beautiful pictures of young babies at an exhibition at Caroline Chisholm School

Early days feature in exhibition

A NORTHAMPTON photographer who set up a business trying to capture the earliest moments in a baby's life is to feature her work in an exhibition.

Natalie Christie, aged 36, set up Little Pumpkins Photography with her partner, Jamie McKerral, aged 37, in June. Both studied photographic practice at The University of Northampton and have been working as photographers since.

Now Natalie, who has recently taken photos for a forthcoming campaign by The Meningitis Trust, has been inspired by Australian baby photographer Anne Geddes in her new venture to take photographs of newborn babies. She said: "I wanted to create something unique that has my stamp on it. This for me is a new creative venture. I wanted to be different to every other photographer."

She uses props such as buckets and cocoons to stimulate the effect of being in a womb. Ideally, she said, she wanted to take pictures of babies before they were 14 days old.

She said: "It's about the newborn period and the fact it's so short. I'm trying to encourage people to capture that."

The business is based at the couple's home in St Matthew's Parade, Kingsley, Northampton: "It's a natural environment that a baby and mother are used to, and I have plenty of natural light, which is an important factor for me," Natalie said.

The exhibition will run at Caroline Chisholm School on Woolpole Road, in Wootton, Northampton, from 10am to 4pm during this weekend.

Upset after charity cash goes missing

A CHARITY fishing match organiser who has raised more than £18,000 with his efforts over the past six years, has spoken of his disappointment after £150 went missing during one of his events.

John Buxton, of Greens Norton, organises regular matches across the Midlands in aid of both Macmillan Cancer Support and The Rainbow Children's Hospice in Loughborough.

But at an after-match meal in Leicestershire it was noticed the £150 raised from the raffle had gone missing.

Mr Buxton said: "The money was in a coin purse and about £80 of it was in change and £1 coins, so it would have been quite heavy."

"The only assumption I can come to is it has been taken by somebody, and that makes me feel very low, as everyone there was a match regular and someone I trusted."

"It's very disappointing, and it makes it even worse that the money was supposed to go to charity. I don't understand how someone could do that."

TV show appeal

PARTICIPANTS from Northamptonshire are being sought for a documentary about obesity in the UK who would be filmed over the course of a year as they try to lose about 10 stones. It will be done all under the guidance of a team of specialists including personal trainers, nutritionists and medical specialists at no cost to the subjects. Anyone interested can email obesityproject@eyeworks.tv or call 0207 644 0075.

Plea to residents

PEOPLE in St David's are being asked if they would like to be part of a new residents' association that will represent their area. The meeting is being held at Kingthorpe Children's Centre, St David's Road, and will start at 7pm tonight. Anyone with questions or queries can contact Jeanette Pidgen, the borough council's north area neighbourhood co-ordinator on Northampton 838309 or email jpigden@northampton.gov.uk

Check your body mass

PARENTS in Northamptonshire are being called on by NHS Choices to check their child's body mass index (BMI) at www.nhs.uk/bmi as part of a proactive approach to managing their child's diet and weight. The call comes as worrying new obesity figures are released, revealing that obesity rates would rise from a quarter in the UK to about 40 per cent by 2030. In Northamptonshire one in four reception children are obese.

What's the top fish?

SALMON has battered cod in a poll to be named Northampton's favourite fish dish, according to pub restaurant operator, Chef & Brewer. With most popular first, the survey ranked the fish: salmon, cod, tuna, haddock, mackerel, prawns, seabass, plaice, sushi.

Hundreds of pets compete for title of Pets Factor 2011!

Matt's most fashionable

DOCTOR Who star Matt Smith has been named the Most Stylish Man of 2011 by GQ magazine.

The Northampton actor, who took over the role of the Doctor in 2010, has been commended by the magazine for his sartorial style and increasing the popularity of bow ties through his choice to include one among the Doctor's wardrobe.

The former Northampton School for Boys pupil features in the magazine's annual Men of the Year list alongside the likes of Rolling Stones star Keith Richards, comedian Rob Brydon and actor Hugh Laurie.

The magazine said: "Starting in Doctor Who is like playing James Bond, you've got to completely become the character.

"Matt Smith has utterly become the Doctor and the Doctor has been remade in his image."

In an interview with the magazine, the actor, who is dating model Daisy Lowe, also revealed the terrible stress he felt after taking on the leading role in the BBC's flagship Saturday evening show.

He said: "The first couple of months were so intense and it was only really with hindsight that I realised that the pressure was apparent, in the air, in my bedroom when I went to sleep, when I woke up, when I was in the car and in the music I was listening to."

Asked to nominate his own man of the year, the actor picked Gavin and Stacey star James Cordon, who has also featured in episodes of Doctor Who.

MP gives praise to town MP

THE Prime Minister has commended the MP for Northampton North, Michael Ellis, for his work to raise money to install a new stained glass window in Westminster to commemorate the Queen's Diamond Jubilee.

The Conservative MP is the chairman of the All Party Parliamentary Group on the Queen's Diamond Jubilee, which was set up to decide how the House of Commons and House of Lords should celebrate the Queen's 60th year on the throne in 2012.

Over the past few months, the committee has raised £85,000 for the window, with money coming from donations made by MPs and Lords.

POWER TO THE PEOPLE!! T&K ARE 100 NOT OUT!!

T&K Solar PV (the renewables division of T&K Home Improvements Ltd) has just completed its 100th Solar PV Installation. Unbeknown to the lucky customer, upon completion of this landmark installation, T&K's Director of Renewables, Ryan Johnson, presented Mr Shipman of Debdale Road in Wellingborough with a cheque for £100.

The Renewables Division of T&K was launched back in 2008 initially installing solar thermal (water heating) systems for its existing customers. As talk of the Feed-in Tariff within government circles increased T&K Solar offered renewable energy systems which would qualify for the Feed-In Tariff (FIT). This followed extensive market research into Solar Photovoltaic (PV) hardware, both panels and inverters.

BP are known industry wide to be the market leader in solar PV modules providing by far the best performance, proof of longevity and warranty performance enabling T&K to supply accurate performance estimates and payback calculations for every potential customer. T&K completed an extensive accredited training programme for its entire staff involved in the process from design, electrical installation through to panel fixing. Once the key ingredients were in place T&K were awarded the Microgeneration Certification Scheme Accreditation (MCS). In order for a householder to qualify for FIT payments an accredited MCS installations company must install their system.

"Be aware of organisations that are not MCS certified who will secure the sale and sub-contract out the installation and commissioning stages. Unlike many national energy companies and national organisations who claim to offer high quality solar PV installations, T&K do not use sub-contractors", says Ryan.

Ryan continues "back in May we opened our doors to the public and ran four seminars to explain the benefits of domestic solar PV systems. The attendance and feedback was overwhelming. Our philosophy with Solar, as it has been for all products for more than 30 years, is to offer good honest advice backed up by a quality product, service and guarantee".

"By only sourcing the market leading materials and ensuring that the installation is undertaken by our own personnel, to our own high standards, we can offer an industry first 10 year guarantee on all materials and workmanship from the date of installation. In addition our guarantee is covered by a comprehensive ten-year insurance backed guarantee to ensure complete peace of mind. Our guarantee combined with BP's 25-year performance warranty makes a solar investment with T&K the safest investment in the UK today. Householders need to be aware that not all solar panels deliver the same performance"

THE SCIENCE

Photovoltaic (PV) panels convert daylight into electricity which can be used to power your home during the day. When you cannot generate enough for your needs, you simply buy electricity from your utility company at normal rates. However, you buy less than you ordinarily would.

"Many of our customers have found that they have changed their habits with regards to energy usage" Ryan states. "Gone are the days of putting the dishwasher and washing machine on at night when electricity may or may not be 'cheaper'. They now use these appliances in the middle of the day when they can use the free energy generated from their Solar PV system."

FEED-IN TARIFF

The Feed-in Tariff is a scheme introduced by the Government that pays householders with an approved renewable technology for EVERY unit of electricity (kWh) they generate for the duration of the 25-year tariff.

The 'Generation' element of the Feed-in Tariff pays 43.3p per Kilowatt-hour (one unit of electricity) of energy generated provided the system has a capacity of 4kW or less (most domestic systems do). The FIT rate was raised in April 2011 after year one of the scheme in line with inflation.

The income is tax-free and index linked so will increase in line with inflation over the life of the tariff and the Government has enshrined this in legislation. In addition to the FIT income, householders also benefit from the free electricity they produce and earn an extra 3.1p for every unit that they export back to the grid (known as the export tariff).

Under the Feed-in Tariff an average home with a 2.56kW T&K Solar System (14 panels) which requires approximately 20m² of roof space) can earn £997 in the first year from generation and exports to the grid. In addition, the electricity produced is likely to save £133 on the year one electricity bill (based upon current rates). This system will have paid for itself in just 9 years, will have an average annual return on investment over the term of the tariff of 21.33% and will save 31.29 tonnes of CO₂. There is no safer or financially attractive investment opportunity available to the homeowner today.

"We offer free, no obligation home assessments. As a part of our system feasibility assessment we produce performance estimates, payback calculations, return on investment figures and CO₂ savings allowing the homeowner to make an informed choice. Our figures are based upon the actual system we design to fit onto the customer's roof and we back it up with our comprehensive 10 year insurance backed guarantee", says Ryan.

"We have a fully operational system, connected to the grid, working on our Eco Bungalow on our Exhibition Centre. I would urge anyone who is interested in having a solar PV system fitted to come and have a look at ours and see the electricity which it is generating against our initial performance estimates".

"Going through the FIT application with our own system means we can guide our customers through their FIT application process. Our aim is to provide advice and assistance every step of the way, something that the large energy companies won't, or can't do", says Ryan.

A study by GE Money Home Lending says having panels installed on your roof can add more than £3,000 to the value of a property. However, at the moment there are no clear figures as the percentage of homes that have solar PV panels is so low. We are however already seeing panels make a big difference in Energy Performance Certificates and house buyers are increasingly taking more notice of them. As energy bills continue to rise, in the long term, homes that already have panels will have greater appeal to buyers.

Ryan concludes "One final point to be aware of is the companies who offer to install the panels for free. T&K carefully considered this business model (rent-a-roof) but concluded that 99% of customers are better off installing panels for themselves and keeping the feed-in tariff returns. In addition there are potential difficulties regarding system ownership when the householder decides to sell the property. Which - the consumer protection website backs this up by saying "if you can afford it, you should buy the system up-front".

100th SATISFIED CUSTOMER

Mr Shipman was presented with a cheque for £100 as a result of being T&K Solar's 100th Solar PV installation.

"I am delighted with my new Solar PV system and it's an added bonus to be T&K's 100th customer!" says Mr Shipman.

"T&K made the whole process very clear; they explained the financial facts and figures in detail. The survey and installation were completed without a hitch. I will start generating Feed-in Tariff payments today and my Bluetooth monitor shows me how much electricity my system is producing".

"They said the installation would be done in one day. I can't believe it was done that quickly."

"Knowing that T&K is a family run business established in the area for more than 30 years made the decision easy. The service I received is what I would expect from T&K."

SPECIAL 100 NOT OUT OFFER

In recognition of reaching this landmark and with the help of BP, T&K are offering a massive 35% discount from its range of solar PV Systems.

"I would urge those who are interested in finding out more to give us a call on 0800 285 1992 and arrange a free no obligation assessment or visit us at the Exhibition Centre"

"The 100 Not Out Discount will end on 25th September 2011, and the highest level of the Feed-in Tariff is only available until April 2012", concludes Ryan.

Author's delight at first book

AN imaginative 25-year-old from Northampton is celebrating the publication of her first book, The Princess and the Sleep Stealer, which she wrote and illustrated following graduation.

Elissa Elwick, aged 25, came up with the inspiration for her book, which is being published by Macmillan, during her final year on an illustration course at Bournemouth University, where she wrote and illustrated a book as part of her major project based on fictional characters the Bob Wobs.

Ms Elwick, who is currently living in London, said: "I sent my final major project off to Macmillan and they then called me in for a meeting.

"They couldn't offer me a deal with my initial idea, so I continued working on it following graduation and amalgamated the characters with a new storyline and illustrations which Macmillan loved, and have now published as part of a book deal."

School looks to the future

NORTHAMPTON School for Boys marked its centenary year at its Billing Road site by burying a special time capsule.

The school, which moved from its Abington Square base in 1911, has placed the capsule in the new concourse ground and it will be opened by the headmaster in 2041, on the 500th anniversary of when the school was founded.

Professor John Hodges, a former pupil of the school between 1938 and 1944, helped the headmaster Mike Griffiths and school development director, Mark Lee, to bury the capsule, which contained items including a letter from Mr Griffiths, school sports magazines, a school tie and an Ofsted report.

Dark reunites for tribute concert

Dark will re-form to play at The Picturedrome in Kettering Road, Northampton, on September 30

A FORMER Northampton band, whose only album sold for more than £6,000 at auction, will re-unite for a one-off gig in memory of the lead guitarist's daughter, who died earlier this year.

Progressive rock band, Dark, will play at the Memories in Pink event at The Picturedrome in Kettering Road, Northampton, on September 30 at 7.30pm.

The charity night, which will raise funds for the Paddington children's ward at Northampton General Hospital, has been organised by the lead guitarist of the band, Steve Giles, in tribute to his daughter Carly, who died, aged 23, in February 2011.

Drummer Clive Thorneycroft said: "We have brought around the reunion to pay our respect to Carly. It's a tribute to her and we will play in her memory. The evening will have a pink theme because that was her favourite colour."

The band, which has not played together since 1997, only released one album, Round the Edges, which was recorded in Military Road in The Mounts, Northampton, in 1971. For details call Northampton 230777.

Hackney Carriage drivers have not increased fares for the past three years, according to their chairman

Taxi fare frozen

HACKNEY Carriage drivers have voted against increasing taxi fares despite spiralling fuel costs.

At an annual meeting of the Northampton Hackney Carriage Association members agreed to keep fares at the current level, despite drivers having to deal with high petrol prices and having to work longer hours.

It means taxi fares will have stayed at the same level for the last four years.

Chairman of the association, Paul Bruere, said the decision came after drivers agreed to continue to work extra hours rather than pass on the cost at the forecourt to customers.

He said: "There has not been a fare increase for three years and the membership has agreed there will not be one this year either. It means that drivers are having to work extra hours in order to earn a living. Most are having to do five to 10 hours more than they used to."

The fares are published at www.northampton.gov.uk

Hot new names star at Comedy Club nights

SCREAMING Blue Murder Comedy Club at the Royal & Derngate will continue to bring some of the hottest new names in comedy to the Underground stage.

Tom Binns, Kate Smurthwaite and Anthony King will be looking to make audiences laugh at the Northampton theatre this Friday.

Writer, actor and comedian Tom Binn's first television appearances were in Knowing Me Knowing You with Alan Partridge and Friday/Saturday Night Armistice.

More recently he's been in Spooks and the IT Crowd, and he has written for many TV shows including Trigger Happy TV.

He has enjoyed sell-out shows at the Edinburgh Festival since 2007.

Stand-up and comedy writer Kate Smurthwaite started performing as a comic in 2004, and 18 months later quit her job in finance to make it her day job.

She made her solo debut at the Edinburgh Festival in 2006. She has performed at top comedy venues and is currently resident compere at Soho Comedy Club, as well as host and writer of live political panel show The Comedy Manifesto.

Anthony King has performed at all the major comedy clubs across the UK and beyond.

His droll humour is a combination of his own life experiences "mixed in with a whole bunch of lies."

Doors open at 7.45pm, and the show starts at 8.15pm.

Tickets cost £11.50 in advance and £12.50 on the door, and can be booked by calling Northampton 624811 or visiting www.royalandderngate.co.uk.

Embarking on their first live adventure, these 10 superheroes are seeking audiences help solve tricky problems which crop up along the way, but audiences are warned to look out for the "dastardly meanies".

These include The Numbertaker, who causes trouble by taking numbers and numbers of things and hiding them up his very long sleeves.

The show won the Royal Metal on the rise

UPCOMING metallers Rise To Remain headline the Roadmender tonight.

The band released their debut album, City Of Vultures, at the beginning of the month.

The album was recorded at Tree House Studios in Chesterfield last year and produced by Carl Bown and legendary metal producer Colin Richardson – renowned for his work with the likes of Machine Head, Bullet For My Valentine and Cradle Of Filth. Last year, Rise To Remain won the Best New Band Award at both the Kerrang! and Metal Hammer awards and have performed at both Download and Sonisphere festivals in recent years.

Rise To Remain comprise bassist Joe Copcutt, singer Austin Dickinson, guitarists Will Homer and Ben Tovey and drummer Pat Lundy.

They formed in 2008 with copies of The Bridges Will Burn EP given away with Metal Hammer magazine.

Rise To Remain play the Roadmender on Thursday, September 15. Doors open at 7pm and tickets cost £8. For more information, visit www.risetoremain.com.

Local residents are being asked whether they have the skills and enthusiasm to run The Stags Head pub in Earls Barton. The pub is currently available for let and the search is on to find the right licensee for this popular local.

Landlord Charles Wells Pub Company is advertising the pub as one of their key business opportunities and they think that the next licensee is likely to come from within a 10mile radius of the pub.

Shaun Matthews, Retail Development Manager for the pub said "Our pubs are run on a tenancy agreement by which we own the property and the licensee rents it from us for a period of time so, effectively, it's their own business. We don't just leave them to it, though, and have won a number of national awards for the support we provide and the practical help we offer them to build trade. We see it very much as a working partnership and have a fantastic induction programme to get them started."

"Experience shows that for a pub at the heart of its community, such as The Stags Head, the most successful operator is likely to come from the local area" confirmed Shaun. "This is because they know the neighbourhood and what the locals want from their pub - and the right licensee will have a great opportunity to use their personality to help the pub become the focal point of their community."

The Stags Head is located on the High Street in Earls Barton and offers a great range of cask beers and established pub food. But there's still scope for further business development, particularly by increasing revenue from food sales and hosting events in the separate function room.

Anyone interested in running the pub doesn't necessarily need to have experience but does need to be committed to providing great hospitality, engage with the local community, drive sales activity and be interested in developing food at the pub. They also need to have at least £20,000 to invest in their business and want to take full advantage of all the support offered by Charles Wells, including an easy-start agreement to help them get started.

If you think you've got what it takes and are interested in finding out more, please contact Yvonne Bates on 01234 244423 or yvonne.bates@charleswells.co.uk. www.charleswells.co.uk

Wrapped up in fluffiness

FRIENDS WITH BENEFITS (15, 109mins) Comedy/Romance. Justin Timberlake, Mila Kunis, Patricia Clarkson, Woody Harrelson, Richard Jenkins, Jenna Elfman, Bryan Greenberg. Director: Will Gluck.

WILL Gluck's romantic comedy wants to have its cake and eat it.

For the opening hour, Friends With Benefits rages against the cheesy tropes of Hollywood romantic comedies, decrying the use of soppy music to manipulate an audience's emotions or the last-minute declarations of love in iconic locations that result in a Happy Ever After.

The three screenwriters even have their spunky heroine take one despairing look at a poster for the 2009 film The Ugly Truth on the streets of Manhattan and scream: "Shut up Katherine Heigl, you stupid liar!" So far, so refreshing.

Then in a staggering volte-face, Gluck's film embraces every one of those same conventions and contrivances to hopefully bring together its two perfectly-matched protagonists for a saccharine finale. It's difficult to know whether we are witnessing an act of staggering arrogance or stupidity on the part of the writers, force-feeding us the same narrative candy floss we have been told, not 30 minutes earlier, is ridiculous.

Friends With Benefits almost gets away with the double standards because Justin Timberlake and Mila Kunis are such an attractive pairing.

They spend a good deal of the film naked in bed together and look extremely comfortable in each other's arms so while the film's methods might be questionable, we're not averse to love triumphing over cliché.

Corporate headhunter Jamie (Kunis) woos talented website director Dylan (Timberlake) to New York with a view to securing his employment at GQ magazine.

She shows him around the city and quickly wins him over. Since they both have wounded hearts, Jamie and Dylan agree that it would be perfectly acceptable to enjoy no-strings-attached sex without any possibility of them falling for each other like the sappy Hollywood romantic comedies they both loathe.

"No relationship, no emotions, just sex," stipulates Jamie.

While Dylan's sexually voracious gay work colleague Tommy (Woody Harrelson) and Jamie's hippy mother Lorna (Patricia Clarkson) foresee trouble on the horizon, the two professionals continue with their agreement, blind to the consequences of their couplings. Meanwhile, Dylan and his sister (Jenna Elfman) contend with the deteriorating health of their father (Richard Jenkins).

Friends With Benefits bears obvious similarities to the Natalie Portman-Ashton Kutcher comedy No Strings Attached from earlier this year.

The two films peddle the myth that you can divorce sex and emotions, and in both cases, carnal desires kindle far deeper emotions for the bed-hopping protagonists.

Timberlake and Kunis are ably supported by Harrelson in scene-stealing form and the resplendent Clarkson, who stumbles upon her daughter in flagrante and coos, "Ooh, it's like the '70s in here!"

The subplot about Jenkins's patriarch succumbing to Alzheimer's is lightly addressed, providing a modicum of substance beneath all of the fluffy wrapping.

Doctor Reginald (Reggie)

Mai and Family would like to sincerely thank all those who sympathised with them in their recent bereavement. Family members, friends, neighbours and parishioners who provided and continue to provide unlimited support.

Those who sent Mass cards, sympathy cards, letters and flowers and those who attended Reggie's Funeral Mass - many travelling a considerable distance. We should like to thank Father Phillip, Deacon O'Leary and Mr Harrison (Organist) from St Patrick's Church in Duston. We should also like to thank those special ladies who helped to care for Reggie over the last few years, also Doctor Wilson and other colleagues, The District Nurses and all the Staff at Langham Place Surgery - and all those who contributed to his health and care latterly.

Many thanks to Mr Kevin Matthews Funeral Directors and his staff for their care and kindness in organising and arranging Reggie's Funeral - as well as G J Caiering and St Crispin's Club for providing hospitality afterwards. We are also grateful for donations to The Alzheimers Society after Reggie's death.

As it would be impossible to thank everybody individually, please accept this acknowledgement as a token of our appreciation.

Crispin off to a flyer

FOOTBALL: FC Crispin hit some early season form on the opening day of the Northampton Town League premier division season as they overwhelmed Bantam FC 7-3.

The Crispin goals were shared between Jason Lyons (2), Chris Fury (2), Craig Fowkes, Andy Eaton and Chris Venn leaving Bantam to reply with strikes from Joe Minney, Daniel Oats and Aaron Linnell.

Reigning champions Harlequins were held to a goalless draw by Denton, but AFC Wombles hit the ground running as they hammered newly promoted Mereway United 6-2.

A goal apiece from Dirk Campling and Lee Lazarski gave Mereway hope, but a hat-trick for Nick Aitkin and a brace from the prolific Jamie Ellis to go with a solo effort from Olli Urquhart saw Wombles ease to a comfortable victory.

RUGBY: Skipper Richard Blank was left frustrated as Old Northamptonians wasted 'two big chances' to beat Scunthorpe at Heston Park. After the previous weekend's win against Longton, ONs were full of confidence ahead of the Scunthorpe trip but went down 16-13 in National League Midlands Three.

"We are really disappointed," said Blank. "Although we've come away with a bonus point, it almost feels like we've come away empty handed."

"I think we fell into the trap of just expecting to score. When that didn't happen - we tried to force things instead of keeping possession and creating a score."

"Add that to the fact that we weren't clinical enough and wasted at least two big chances to score."

MAKING A BREAK - Saints full-back Ben Foden goes on the run for England during their 13-9 win against Argentina in Dunedin, New Zealand, last Saturday. Foden was one of England's more lively attacking threats in a poor display by Martin Johnson's men. England are back in action on Saturday when they take on Georgia, without the suspended Courtney Lawes (see back page)

Wing Diggin set for return

SAINTS boss Jim Mallinder says there is a 'good chance' Paul Diggin will be back for Saturday's Aviva Premiership clash against London Irish.

The winger was ruled out of last Friday night's 26-13 defeat at Harlequins because of a shoulder problem.

The versatile Tom May took over his spot with Jon Clarke playing his first game of the season at outside centre.

Without Diggin Saints' attack failed to fire, but Mallinder is hoping to have the 26-year-old back in contention for the Franklin's Gardens clash with the Exiles on Saturday.

"Diggin has got a sore shoulder," said Mallinder.

"There is a good chance he will be available for the game against London Irish."

Saints will still be without scrum-half Lee Dickson after he had an operation to put a metal plate in his jaw after taking a bang on it in pre-season.

Mallinder said Dickson was still two weeks away from playing, though the England Saxons scrum-half took part with the Saints players in the pre-match warm-up at the Stoop on Friday night.

Hooker Brett Sharman was also at the game and Mallinder said the South African will be fit to play against London Irish after missing the opening two games of the season with a knee problem.

He will now be vying for a start with Andy Long, who has filled the no.2 shirt in the two opening fixtures of the season.

Roger Wilson has been suffering from a back and hip and was sorely missed in the defeat at the Stoop.

The Irish No.8 is expected to be back in training this week, but it is not known if he will also be in contention for Saturday's clash at the Gardens.

Greig Tonks scored the Saints' only try at the Stoop in a game that was a setback for Mallinder's men, who had started the season so well with an opening day win over Gloucester.

Saints close in on title

CRICKET: Andy Reynoldson's brilliant century took Saints to the win that moved them back into pole position to take the title.

A haul of 24 points or better from their final game against Burton Latimer on Saturday will see the title head to Birchfield Road East for the first time since 1997.

Reynoldson smashed 132 from 127 balls, with 19 fours and a six, as Saints posted 248 for six. Jake Higginbotham (50) and Mark Wolstenholme (28) also weighed in with good supporting knocks.

Opener Matthew Bell then hit 57 at the top of Burton's reply, but they were dismissed for 164.

The title destination is back in Saints' hands thanks to Brixworth's surprise win over Saturday morning leaders Peterborough. This loss, combined with wins for Saints and Finedon, means just eight points covers the top three with one game to go.

Tom Worthington did the early damage for Brixworth with three for 42 as the Boro's top order fell away and they posted a below-par 209 for seven.

Callum Berrill (86) played the anchor role for Brixworth, supported by Andy Crook (41), and then Paul Blakemore (43no) and Ross McLean (25no) steered their side to 210 for seven.

Will Sneath claimed seven wickets as Finedon hammered Horton House.

Sneath took seven 38 from 11 overs as Horton's house turned out to be made of nothing more than straw. Only three men reached double figures as Sneath skittled them for just 70 in just 21.1 overs.

Earlier, Finedon had made a useful 230 for seven, which proved more than plenty.

Simon Dadge took three for 60 for Horton.

GOAL STAR - Michael Jacobs is mobbed by his team-mates after scoring the first of his two goals in Tuesday night's 3-0 win at Wimbledon Town go Crackers!

GARY JOHNSON hailed the match-winning capabilities of Michael Jacobs as the Cobblers ended a seven-game winless streak at Wimbledon on Tuesday night.

Town ran out 3-0 winners at Kingsmeadow with Jacobs scoring twice in a second half during which they played with only 10 men following Nick McKoy's sending-off on the stroke of half-time for a dangerous tackle.

Adebayo Akinfenwa had put the visitors in front with an early penalty secured when new loan arrival Marlon Jackson was fouled by home keeper Seb Brown.

And although all of those players performed well, the night belonged to Jacobs, nicknamed Crackers, who played with a real maturity in central midfield with the side short-handed.

"I thought they really put in a stint and they really looked like they wanted to come away with the three points," said Johnson.

"The 10 men near enough demoralised the 11.

"We deserved to win. Everybody did their job, everybody threw themselves in front of things and our spirit in terms of defending was fantastic.

"And then when we broke we broke with pace and quality and Michael Jacobs was magnificent for us in the second half.

"He went and decided he was going to win the game for us, I asked for match-winners before the game and he's gone and been that for us."

Jackson did well to win a spot-kick the player felt was '100 per cent a penalty'.

Johnson felt it was the right decision, too, and was delighted his new recruit from Bristol City made such an instant impression.

"Marlon (Jackson) got us the penalty and that was very pleasing," he said.

"He got to the ball before the goal-keeper and he didn't have an option but to bring him down.

"We know he can do that and that's why we've brought him here and it was great for him to make an impact after only 10 minutes.

"Somebody that quick often puts defenders on the back foot but he was probably 60-40 against to get to that ball and he did and won us a penalty, which was great."

As well as McKoy's dismissal, the other low point for Johnson was a serious looking injury to Nana, who was carried from the pitch on a stretcher late on.

The Cobblers, who drew 0-0 with Torquay United at Sixfields last weekend, are back on the road on Saturday when they travel to Macclesfield.

England to call on Saint Paul?

PAUL DORAN-JONES could be on his way to the World Cup after England sent injured prop Andrew Sheridan home.

Doran-Jones, a summer signing from Gloucester, is on standby after being named in the initial 40-man provisional squad for the World Cup by England boss Martin Johnson.

The RFU announced on Wednesday morning New Zealand time that a shoulder injury had ended Sheridan's World Cup and he will return home for treatment, subject to final approval from the tournament's medical director, and he will be replaced in England's 30-man squad.

Sheridan had a shoulder operation in the summer and was replaced after an hour of England's opening World Cup win against Argentina.

England manager Martin Johnson is still to decide on the identity of Sheridan's replacement and might not call one up, but if he does it seems to be a straight choice between Saints' Doran-Jones and Wasps loosehead Tim Payne.

Doran-Jones' ability to play at loosehead and tighthead must make him favourite, especially as he appeared twice off the bench in last season's Six Nations against Scotland and Ireland, while Payne was not part of the squad.

Johnson said: "We brought five props so we have options and we can bring another player out, but we will decide what to do about that in due course."

If Doran-Jones is called up that will make six Saints players in the England World Cup squad and nine in all participating in New Zealand.

Meanwhile, Saints flanker Courtney Lawes has been banned for two World Cup matches after being found guilty of recklessly striking Argentina hooker Mario Ledesma with his knee.

The independent judicial officer Terry Willis, from Australia, reduced the ban from three to two weeks on account of Lawes' 'excellent disciplinary record and remorse'.
